

IN-HOME PRIVATE TRAINING SESSION

1½-hour In-Home Private Session: $120

Unleash will complete a complimentary in-home consultation prior to beginning any training program. This is a great opportunity to get to know you and your dog and understand the goals you'd like to achieve. Training approach and equipment – such as collar and leash options – will also be discussed.

Overview:

In-Home Private Training provides an opportunity for you to learn how to effectively communicate obedience commands to your dog and simulate relevant at-home challenges. Unleash is there every step of the way to provide in the moment, one-on-one guidance.

'Field trips' are often part of In-Home Training Sessions to address training goals outside the home. Visits to public places or just a walk around your neighborhood are great opportunities to encounter all kinds of challenging real-life situations.

Private training sessions are tailored to your dog's personality and your family's goals. These sessions are open to dogs 16 weeks and older. The greatest benefit of participating in a 90-minute private training session is the ability to train at a pace that best suits the needs of you and your dog. You will also benefit from a completely custom training agenda with personalized instruction from an Unleash training professional.

Private training sessions are ideal for owners who have the time and patience to work closely with their dog.

These sessions also work well for dogs with personality types that work best when in their home environment versus an outside class setting.

To maximize the success of each session, you and your dog will be required to practice at home between sessions. A commitment of a minimum of two to three 20-minute homework sessions per day is necessary for private training to be effective.
